OF HIS TO FOTE FOR HEWITT. County Clerk Flack Trying to Find Out who Sent Out the Arion and Liederkrans Cir-culars-Jacobus Isn't Worrying Much. Things are getting red hot in the Shrievalty campaign. It was a little late in getting a full start, but the fight is getting to be as brisk as if it had been going on as long as the struggle among the four leaders in the race for the Mayorschair. Flack and his Tammany friends are throwing out lines in all directions and fishing for votes with all kinds of hooks. Murphy and his County Democracy lieutenants have made a net that will drag through every ward, and Jacobus, the Republican candidate. is out with his supporters with scoops and capture the votes. So far there hasn't been much personal bitterness, but there were evident vesterday the signs of an attempt to make capital in certain directions by attacking the character of one of the contestants. It is not likely that the attack will be carried very far. ecause the promoters of the scheme know that there would be a sharp retaliation which would not be profitable to them.

The busiest nominee for the Shrievalty res-terday was Col. Murphy. He was at his Sturtevant headquarters every hour, and he sat at his desk in his shirt sleeves, rushing through a big correspondence and receiving callers. The Colonel has fifteen men industriously at work in one large room at the Sturtevant, and he himself is doing the work of a dozen in a parlor adjoining. The ante-room to his parlor was crowded with callers yesterday, and some of them had to wait half an hour after sending their cards in to see him. Besides these head-quarters, the County Democracy candidate has a beehive down in Hudson street, at the rooms of the Hickory Club, that has one hundred a beshive down in Hudson street, at the rooms of the Hickory Club, that has one hundred workers there night and day.

A story has been told in many places that Col, Murphy was out with Mayor Hewitt to such an extent that he didn't care whether Hewitt was elected or not. He denied this yesteriay and said: "I think it almost unnecessary to contradict all the tales that Tammany men are telling. This is one of their inventions. I am for Mayor Hewitt, and I want to see him elected. I want to see all the County Democracy people vote for him, and I want all my friends to vote for him as well as for me. There is no doubt that he is the best candidate in the field, and I have no doubt that he will win. I have heard from friends all over town that his vote is increasing from day to day. It doesn't make any difference how much his opponents may blow and braz. If the man who wants to find the truth should go away from the line of Broadway and put his questions in the wards and districts he would find a constantly increasing sentiment for the Mayor."

As to his own prospects Col, Murphy doesn't say more than to declare confidence in his election. It is admitted, even by his opponents, that he has the pull on the territory below Canal street, and the Republicans conceed that he has strength on the upper west side. It is among the wards above Canal street that his friends are doing their chief work. They made great use yesterday of the story that Flack had caused to be circulated among the members of the American Institute and the German clubs a large number of forged letters. Of these letters Mr. Flack said yesterday:

1 yery much regret this occurrence. There seems to be no doubt that letters were sent around appn which

German clubs a large number of forged letters. Of these letters Mr. Flack said yesterday:

I very much regret this occurrence. There seems to be no doubt that letters were sent around, upon which stamps of these societies were used, although I only learned it positively for the first time yesterday. I have made as close an investigation as possible, and have ascertained that the stamps were in no instances copies of the efficial stamps of either of these societies. They seem the efficial stamps of either of these societies. They seem the efficial stamps of either of these societies. They seem the efficient in the efficient stamps of the efficient stamps and shall endeavor to accertain by investigation whether they were used in excess of friendly zeal for me, or were used by some enemy who intended to injure me before they were used in excess of friendly zeal for me, or were used by some enemy who intended to injure me before they were used in excess of friendly zeal for me, or were used by some enemy who intended to injure me before the public. I have had employed in tills canvass some shirity persons to attend to the details of the business connected therewith, and whether one of these persons maticiously intended to injure me, or whether it was done through a intendent to injure me, or whether it was done through a intendent to the details of the business connected therewith, and whether one of these persons maticiously intended to know what it is to run.

come shrough a mistaken friendship, I intend to discover assoon as possible.

Candidate Jacobus knows what it is to run for Sheriif and be beaten out of his boots, and in this campaign he has the advantage of having gone through a good deal of worry which he now knows how to avoid. He was in and out of his room at the Republican Headquarters on West Twenty-fifth street yesterday from hour to hour, and the little chamber on the second floor front of the old Carlton Clup House, where his aides are figuring how he will get the necessary votes, was filled all the afternoon with men who wanted to see him. He has not had much printed matter mailed. There is one letter—an endorsement that may be signed by any friend—and of these several thousand have been distributed. His ballots give his middle name in full—John Wesley Jacobus.

Mr. Flack was just about as husy vesterday.

Mr. Flack was just about as busy yesterday as Col. Murphy. It is in his office at the Morton House that the sole bit of poetry so far discovered in the Shrievalty campaign literature can be found. It isn't a long noem, but it is around in the interests of Tammany. The poem reads:

poem reads:

Marphy is brave, but he must back out of the way for James A. Flack.

The Tammany people believe that Mr. Flack will have a vote that won't differ much from Mr. Grant's. They believe that the two will ran nearly even, and that possibly Edward F. Reilly, the nominee for County Clerk, will go ahead of Flack, if not beyond Grant. But combinations are being formed in various parts of the city with the Coogan ticket, and possibly a silent vote may be developed which will materially change things. The only Coogan has sent out bushels of tickets bearing his name and the names of all sorts of country nominees, Tammany, County Democracy, and Republicans. The irlends of Jacobus and Murphy think that those candidates will get more of the Coogan party than will go to Flack.

David Kinney of Middle Village, who has suffered greatly from chicken thieves during the past few years has just had a burgiar-proof chicken coop built with Pertland coment, the sheet-iron doors are secured with two old-fashioned German locks, and there is a secret slarm wire running from the coop to his house. Besides all this Mr. Kinney has secreted one or two hear traps near the coop, and has provided himself with three revolvers and two double-barrelled shotguns, and he says there are men enough around his premises to use them in case of need. Shot by Trespassers.

A Chicken Coop Like a Bank Vault.

While out gunning yesterday three brothers named George, Jarvia E., and James Benneit trespassed on the premises of Eghert Strong, near Breslau. They were ordered off by William W. Robbins, a nephew of Farmer Strong. The brothers then, went upon the ad-joining land of Scudder O. Jarvis. Robbins ordered them off there, too. They refused to go. Sharp words followed, and Robbins shot a dog belonging to the sun-ners. George and Jarvis Bennett then both fired at Bobbins, we making him slightly. Warrants have been issued by Justice Geoper of Habylon for the arrest of the two men who fired at Robbins. Capt. Howell Browned at Sen.

Capt, John Howell of Northport, L. I., of the cheoner sophic Behrmans of Patchegue, was washed werboard while coming around the Cape, bound from featen to New York, and drowned the fore part of this reset. There was no one else on hoard except a lad tamed William Van Aradia of Fatchegue. He had all se could do to keep the vessel before the wind, and could wafer the Captain po sessistance. The lad annoyed the reseal at Chacham, Mass. He was taken offby the life-sering crew.

NIGHT SHERIFF GRANT SAID . The managers of Mr. Hewitt's canvass have charged that I favor a property qualification for voters, quoting the word "taxpayers" from my letter of acceptance of 1884, and suppressing a portion of the paragraph in strangers can legislate more intelligently for our city's welfare and government than can its own residents, who are familiar by long experience with its wants. Were these powers vested in the taxpayers themselves our city would be more intelligently and economically

The language of my letter shows clearly to any man of intelligence that I used the word "taxpayers" as or intelligence that I used the word "residents." I do not new and never did favor the property qualification. When I used the word "taxpayers" I used it in the broad sense in which it is used by the Democratic party in the national campaign. I included all the citizens of this city. The workingmen who occupy the tensments houses are just and the taxpayers at that particular in the property of the content of the city as much the taxpayers as their landlords. Their rentals have always been raised as taxation has advanced, and for them I claim, and always have claimed, an equal for them I claim, and always have claimed, an equal voice and equal vete in all matters. When the attempt was made by the Evarts Commission in 1867 to fig a property qualification for voters in certain cases the Tammany organization was the first to denounce and defeat it, and I have always regarded its action in this respect as one of the most creditable features of its history. The republication of this charge, which has long since been exploded, illustrates the desperate expedients to which my conounce are reduced. ents to which my opponents are reduced.

I trust my fellow citizens will not be misled by false statements that may be made of this or any other char acter intended to affect my caudidacy in the closing days of the campaign. The Workingman's Candidate
